What did you like? (Responses 19)

- Convenience (4)
- How it had multiple ways to view schedule: monthly, weekly, or daily (2)
- Simple (3)
- Everything that they plan is laid out.
- Being able to choose from multiple time slots, having it send them reminders of their appointments. Ability to copy paste events, set up recurring events, easily change time segments and the ability to rename events.
- Intuitiveness
- They enjoyed that they did not need to register to use the application
- Connected to phone contacts.
- Notifications/Reminders/Alarms (3)
- Google calendar
- Easy to see daily schedule
- Organization

What did you dislike? (Responses 15)

- No ability to play with schedule prior to publishing it
- Hard to navigate
- Clunky UI
- Layout can be confusing
- Reminder settings were not ideal
- Failure to receive notifications
- Stressing over too many commitments
- Not enough room (ability to zoom and make it larger)
- When they cannot sync their schedules from work or school site
- Not being able to easily move appointments around

Have you ever used a family scheduling app? (Responses 47)

- Everyone who took the survey had never used a family scheduling app

What did they like?

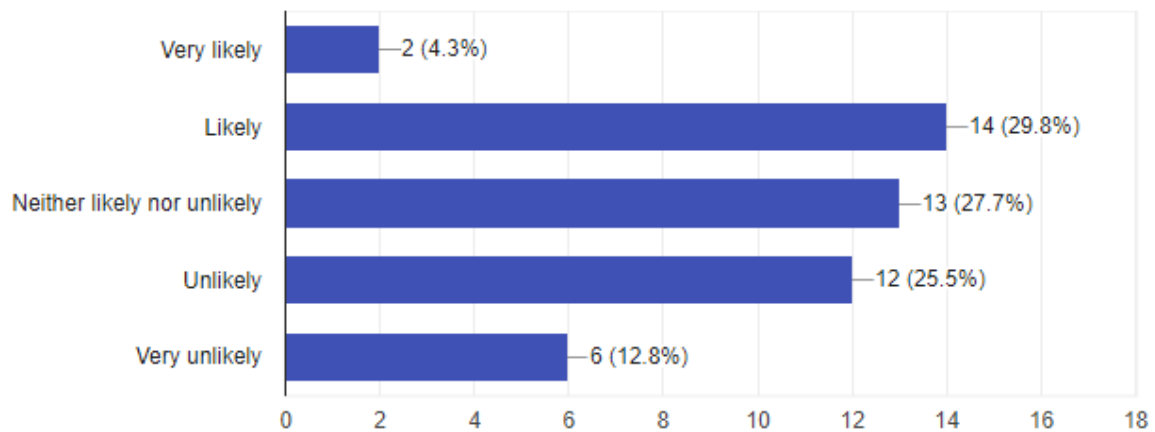

- Was not applicable based on answers. However, one individual liked that google calendar invitations options that it would auto-appear in the calendar

What did you dislike?

- Not applicable

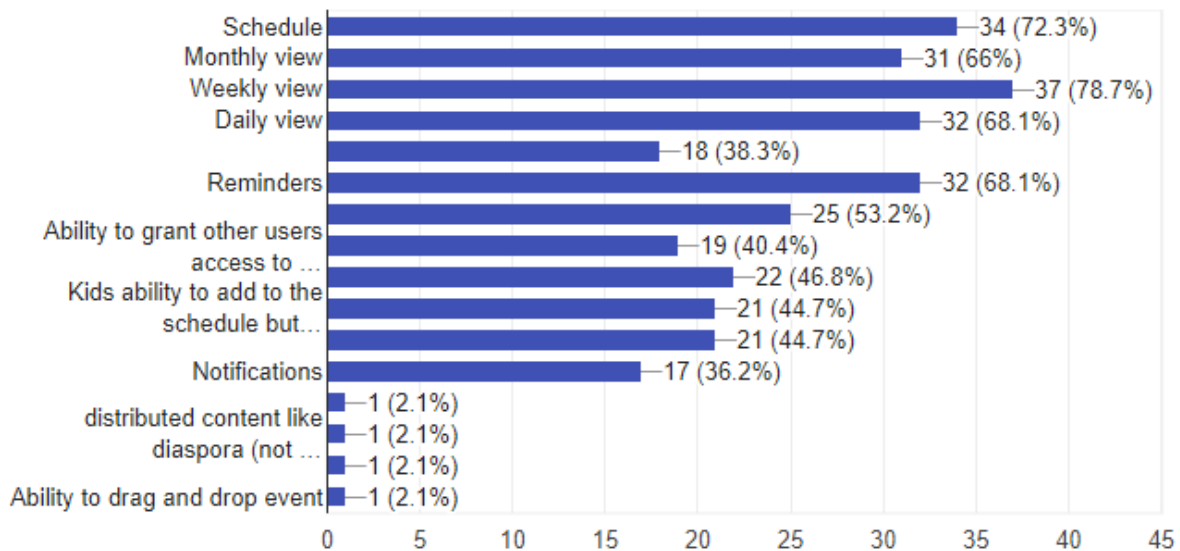

Would you be interested in using a family scheduling app?

What features would you want included in the app?

47 responses

If you answered yes to wanting to be using a family schedule. Why and what features would you like to see?

- The ability to sync with other family members so we will all be on the same page
- To have an organized plan of what the family has scheduled
- Daily schedule reminders
- Its nice to have a calendar that comes with us wherever and edited to our specific needs, especially where we can see certain people at one time
- Having out schedule digitally would make it easier to update and use. Reminders would be a main reason for me to use the app
- Lots of room to put more on the same day
- I would like to have people sync their schedule to mine so I can see when they are available but would also want to be in control of what others see from me.

What is an important thing to have for a family scheduling app?

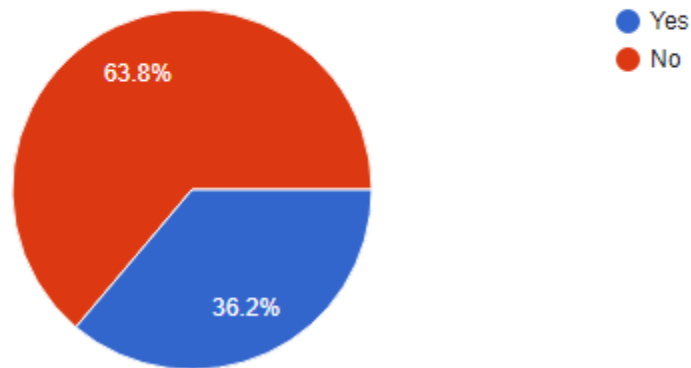

- I think it is important to not grant full access to the children considering how great they are with technology
- Approval by the parent
- Checklists
- Hiding surprise parties
- Ability to see other family member's schedules
- Organization
- Colour coordinated

- Free
- Reminders! And different kinds with different frequencies
- The ability for both parents to add/remove/edit would be great
- Accuracy
- The ability to provide suggestions but not change unless they have a password
- Colour for each person
- Notifications
- Easy to use, doesn't forget appointments

How do you manage your family's schedule or your own if you answered no?

47 responses

What do you like and dislike about it?

- I forget things (2)
- I like that it reminds me 30min before an activity or that I can change when I want to get the reminder for the event
- I forget commitments from time to time
- Ease of use, global integration
- Not being able to access it when I'm not home
- When I forget one may receive near-zero notice of an activity or guests arriving
- I like the options see the month in a schedule as its easy to see special dates. But, I often to forget to add important dates to it.
- I like that I can see it anytime, but dislike that it doesn't give me reminders
- It keeps up with some events but you can't list everything you have to do on one day
- I can look at it daily
- Good reminder as a paper copy

- It is not visible to my partner, sometimes I forget to put things in there and miss appointments
- Not the most efficient way always
- Boring interface of calendar on smartphone
- Paper calendars are hard to make constant edits on and when we are out of the house (which is frequent) we can't double check time
- Its hard to use sometimes
- Sometimes they do not call
- I like it because I'm a paper and pen person, I don't like it because I can't easily bring it everywhere with me.
- They get lost or they I don't see them
- I don't like that its not with me all the time
- I have to manually add everyone's info if I want it then we can't share it
- Poor communication, but instant
- I like the creativity, dislike the time it takes sometimes
- Works fine
- Gets confusing when appointments are added before/after ones already written down, easy to get confused.
